

The Master's Commission

By Staff Member Bob Widman

Recently Don and I flew a trip for The Master's Commission, the Bible School associated with the Assembly of God Church in Wasilla. Bob and Don flew the King Air, and were joined on this trip by Larry and Andy flying the Casa. Together the crews flew 24 young people and their pastor, Scott, to the village of Stebbins. Stebbins is located in bush Alaska on the west coast, approximately 50 miles southwest of Unalakleet. This is an organization that we have been supporting for several years, often staying with the teams as they minister in the villages. Their witness and testimony is always outstanding and they are a real message of Grace to the villages.

Normally they share a number of skits about Bible topics and always they share the message of salvation. They have always reached folks for Christ and ministered and given help to people who have experienced some deep pain.

One of the things that brought the pilots joy on this mission was being able to help these 25 people get from their hometown of Wasilla straight to Stebbins. Had we not been able to provide transportation for them, they would have had to drive to Anchorage, fly on one or two small airliners to Unalakleet, and then be taken in at least two Caravan loads from Unalakleet to Stebbins. It was great for them [to shorten their trip] and fun as a pilot to be able to serve them in that way.
